

Educator Finalists

Terrie Sheik

Terrie Sheik is very well-known at Lake Oswego High School. She should be, having spent 30 years in the office, working primarily as an administrative assistant. Her selection as an Educator SASEE finalist honors her work coaching the cheerleading squad. She had no previous training when she began, but she dove fearlessly into learning everything about the sport. Previous SASEE Award recipient Rollin Dickinson describes Terrie as “the rock and the rock star for all of us. She helped lead the school. She held us all to the highest standards of care, of excellence, of professionalism, and of spirit.”

Patrick Tomblin

Patrick Tomblin recently retired as Executive Director of LOSD Student Services. When he joined the district, transition services were provided through the Clackamas ESD (Educational Service District). Patrick’s vision was to create programming within our own district that would provide community access and individualized instruction for Lake Oswego students 18–21 years of age. In 2007, under his leadership, the LOSD Community Transition Program (CTP) was born. Through the years, Patrick continued his support and always encouraged program and staff development of this important student service.
